The Sherman, Sheridan, Grant, Warren, Hancock, Thomas, Logan and Meade are all owned by the Government. The other transports on the Coast, at Manila or going or coming between, are all chartered vessels. Two more have been added to the fleet, the Olympia and Rio de Janeiro, to prevent delay in getting the new regi-ments away, but they will not make more than one trip. The big trans-ports from the East will not be ready for service on the Pacific for two months or more, and by that time all the State volunteers will have been carried home and the new regiments will be in the islands, so the eight big ships should be able to handle the traffic. If they cannot, there are two or three more on the Atlantic coast that may be sent over here.

The United States hospital ship Relief anchored in Naval Row yesterday morning after a smart passage from San Francisco of 5 days and 16 hours She has no passengers on board, having been condemned as a passenger boat by one of the peculiar judgments of the United States Inspectors in San Francisco. She presents a staunch and seaworthy appearance and above and below deck everything is as neat as a pin. Captain Irwin, quartermaster, is the only army officer on the Relief. He was in charge of her the last time she passed through. The Captain is glad to stay with the vessel and has no idea that he is in andue danger. The 106 men shipped as members of the crew will many of them be hospital attendants when they reach Manila. There is enough work clearing the vessel, say the officers, to keep them all busy. The Relief will take about 500 tons of coal here and will coal again at Guam. Her officers are Captain Harding, First Officer Crocker, Engi neer Cole, Steward Morris. She brought three days' news and mail from the States. The Relief passed the United States army transport Grant which sailed Monday, September 25 twenty-four hours ahead of the Relief when some three days out. The Grant had the mail of September 24 and 25 and the Relief brought the mail and newspapers of the 26th. The Relief will sail for Manila via Guam after taking on 500 tons of coal.
